The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1876.

A GOOD deal of speculation has taken place upon the question, who is to be the next Governor of Bombay? Some people have declared for Sir Henry Anderson, and some have thought they certainly were not mistaken in believing that it had already been determined upon that the next Governor should be Sir Arthur Gordon, who was formerly Governor of the Mauritius. A few also have held that the next Governor would be a Lieutenant-Governor because the Secretary of State had discovered so little good in the Bombay Government that he had resolved to cut it down into a Lieutenant Governorship. Important pieces of patronage for old friends, needy relations of the Peerage, and so forth, are not easily got rid of when once they take fair root in the British political system; and hence it is certain that the Government of Bombay will continue to be known as such for some time longer. This brings us back to the important question of Governors. We have every reason to believe that Sir Bartle Frere is the coming man. Sir Bartle has his peculiarities, but we should think he will do more honour to the position than has been done to it of recent years. Opinions may be divided about the relative competence for the appointment of Sir Henry Anderson and Sir Bartle; but there can be no doubt that either of them is better than Sir Arthur Gordon, who suddenly quitted his Governorship in the Mauritius under peculiar circumstances, and who was immensely disliked by the planting interests in that settlement. Indeed, unless some satisfactory explanation were given of Sir Arthur's vagaries in the Mauritius, his appointment to the Governorship of Bombay would be little else than a scandalous job. Sir Bartle has an advantage over most men, inasmuch as he has already had experience of the office which will shortly be abdicated by Sir Philip Wodehouse. He is a man who is peculiarly in tune with the present times, when an admiration for native personalty and character is sought to be inculcated in Englishmen by Viceregal minutes and Cooper's Hill College speeches. He is "much to all men," and may perhaps effect, with his peculiar bland benignity, such changes in the character of the Government of this Presidency as will excite universal admiration. We shall see. At all events, following the reigns of Sir Bartle Frere, Sir Seymour Fitzgerald, and Sir Philip Wodehouse, Sir Bartle Frere in his second avatarship has little need to fear that he will be placed at a disadvantage by the exceptionally illustrious reigns of recent predecessors. It is quite understood in India Office circles that Sir Bartle's re-appointment to the Governorship of Bombay is a part of the reward which Her Majesty intended to confer upon him for conducting the Prince of Wales through India successfully and triumphantly. The story is that he could not accept a Peerage because he had not the means to support the title; that Her Majesty wished a national grant to be voted to him in addition to the Peerage; that Mr. Disraeli pointed out that, admirable as were Sir Bartle's services, he could not bring the subject before Parliament because hitherto the nation has only permitted grants to be presented along with titles in the case of distinguished military services, and Sir Bartle's services had been eminently peaceful instead of warlike; that Her Majesty concurred in Mr. Disraeli's views, and resolved that to console him for the loss of the Peerage and a grant he should have a Baronetcy and the reversion of the Government of Bombay. Sir Philip Wodehouse recently applied for a year's extension of his appointment, probably in order to gain a further insight into his duties; but it being considered either that he was already sufficiently rewarded for his hospitality to the Prince in Bombay by the present of the title of Baronet, or that the promise made to Sir Bartle stood in the way, Sir Philip's modest request was refused. His period of office does not expire till May next, but he has applied to be permitted to leave in March; and it is understood that this request has been acceded to with alacrity by the Secretary of State.

THE Duke of Buckingham, not long ago, discarding prejudices as irrelevent to the subject, desired that all natives should wear a certain kind of costume when attending Government House, Madras, with the alternative of stopping away. The Court-dress prescribed—a long white robe reaching well nigh to the ground—was probably suggested by the singular livery worn by the peons of the Madras Club; but if not original, it is clean, cool, and airy, and in these desiderata it must be acknowledged that the native gentleman has a great advantage over the broadcloth-wearing Briton. If the Duke of Buckingham went a step farther, and arrayed himself and the members of the Madras Government in similar white cotton gowns, His Grace would do Anglo-India a service without rendering the Englishman much of a more singular figure in the East than he presents at present. Alluding to the Madras Club, it is a wonderful thing to observe the members of that delightful institution taking their ease in the correct habiliments of Bond-street. Any one of them looks prepared at a moment's notice to put on his chimney pot and take a stroll down the shady side of Pall Mall. But there is no shade outside the Madras Club. On the contrary, there is the blinding glare of Hindostan, to modify which the Briton dons a blackcloth coat and a black silk tie. Though the perspiration pours off his illused body, he encases himself in the social privileges of stiff-neck collars, polished boots, tight kid gloves, and starched white waistcoat, and although too painfully aware that he is in India, he makes believe that he is in London. This "making believe" is sorry pastime. The great personal discomfort and uncleanliness which a man dressed in the European fashion under the Indian sun endures is really very great, and although some spare, liverless, dried-up atomies of men manage to carry off the costume of the Row or Chiswick with an ungreasy countenance, there are others stouter, and in the majority, to whom such dress is oleaginous and purgatorial and a burden grievous to be borne. We believe the Madras upper crust rather prides itself on the amount of baking it can endure. The capacity of suffering in Poole's clothes is a test of nobility in Nungumbaukum. In the excellent and otherwise luxurious Club before mentioned, it is de rigueur to sweat fashionably, and the man who appeared devoid of collar, or the conventional clothcoat, would be scowled down by society as a pariah and an outcast. To wear the European costume with an air of as much contentment as is practicable is at present one of the first duties of the Englishman in India, and though Madras, with its frightful heat, carries this view of our religious responsibilities to excess, it must be admitted that in all parts of the country there is a strong tendency to make people uncomfortable in this matter.

Another nobleman—Lord Mark Kerr, to wit—had the good sense to appear some time ago at the ceremonious inauguration of a mill-wheel in pure white. But there is less affectation of coat and collars about men of high birth than other people, and we only wish we could see two true reformers in the General at Poona and the Governor at Madras. Whether it will ever come within the intelligence of any representative Englishman to adopt the Oriental costume, or a modification of it, we do not know, but there would certainly be many advantages for us all if the Bond-street get up was discarded for something better. When the Pr

WE regret to learn that Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee, the Second Magistrate, is seriously unwell. He has been unable to sit in his Court for a month past, and his cases have had to be decided by Mr. Nana Morojee. The public will hope that Mr. Dosabhoy may soon recover his health, for he is a valuable member of the community, and his services are soon missed.

THE fresh outbreak of cholera in Cashmere, along the line of road that the Viceroy will take, has aroused the cautious officials to the consideration of the propriety of his Lordship going to Cashmere at all, but the alarm is, probably, groundless. The bracing air in Cashmere in October will doubtless drive away cholera which may, nevertheless, be confined to the back slums of Cashmere towns, places that none of the Viceregal party will visit.

THE Mussoorie correspondent of the Delhi Gazette writes as follows about the late runaway from that part:—"Nothing more has been heard of the delinquent, Mr. Macleane; the last shave about his having taken up the appointment and assumed the name, is all bosh. He was a man of humble origin, but undoubtedly talented. A widowed mother will deplore the end of her son whose beginning of life was one so full of promise. He is supposed to have gone to join his wife, known to have once been a French actress."

INTIMATION has been received by the Agent, East Indian Railway, from the Directors in England, that Government will take over the telegraph lines belonging to the Company on 1st January 1877. The whole of the Railway telegraph employés have therefore been warned that after the close of this year their services will not be further required by the E. I. R. It is, however, possible the services of some of the staff may be retained in the Government Telegraph Department. Mr. Carmichael, the E. I. R. Telegraph Superintendent, has been some 18 years in the service of the Railway Company, and besides being a clever electrician is also a man of varied acquirements, being a good practical chemist and analyst.

THE editors of the press who have been invited to the Government of India Camp at Delhi during the Imperial Assemblage have been put under the charge of Major Bradford, C. S. I., Superintendent of the Thuggee and Dacoitee Department. The Statesman feels particularly sensitive about this arrangement, and thinks that the inference the general public will draw is that the gentlemen of the press are also gentlemen of the road. Truly, truly, "conscience doth make cowards of us all." The Statesman need have no fear, however, for his character; at all events, if at this advanced period of his existence he loses it through a flirtation with Major Bradford, he will do so in good company, for the Major was responsible for the personal safety of the Prince of Wales.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Delhi Gazette, writing from Kasauli on the 9th instant, gives the following account of the cause of the death of Mr. Barter of the 73rd Regiment. He writes:—"The deceased officer was Mr. R. S. Barter, a Sub-Lieutenant of about three years' service, and well connected in the army. He had been out in the hills above Solon shooting, and on Monday last his body was brought in with the head pierced through from ear to ear by a bullet. There were no marks of powder about the face, and this, together with the position of the wound, render it highly improbable that death occurred by his own hand, even if such a suspicion could attach to a person of the unfortunate officer's temperament. One of the beaters who were with him asserts, that on hearing a shot he went in search of the animal he expected to find closer, and found instead his master, who had rolled some distance, weltering in his blood. The affair, which on the face seems rather mysterious, will most likely turn out to be an act of revenge by some one of the six coolies who accompanied him at the time, and who are now in confinement for some real or fancied injury.

THE Pioneer has got hold of some gossip, as light as many of our contemporary's gatherings, about the Eastern Question, and of which he says:—"These, it will be owned, are very remarkable opinions to be held by a Mahomedan, however enlightened. If they are by any means widely spread, they place the relations of India to the Eastern problem in a new light." The following are the opinions referred to and which were expressed in a conversation with "an intelligent and well-informed Mahomedan gentleman" who said:—"But after all, Turkey cannot last very long. They have neither money nor good administration, they depose Sultan Abdul Aziz, and set up Murad who is a fool; then they depose him, and Sultan Hamid seems hardly any better. And all this is done, not by the will of the Mussulman people, but by the caprice of a knot of viziers. Such an Empire cannot stand though they be victorious for the present. And since it must fall to pieces, England must annex Egypt for India's sake; but besides this, some trustworthy power must take charge of Constantinople, which is by nature a capital of the world (dar-i-dunia). And there is no power so trustworthy, because so free from covetousness of territory, as our Empress (hamari Padshah)"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I am passionately fond of horses, and take great pleasure in breeding and rearing them. You will not therefore be surprised to learn that I have read attentively your "leader" respecting the paucity of horses in India, which appeared in your issue of the 4th instant. The complaint that Rs. 1,000 is too high a price for a man with a limited income to pay for a decent horse is reasonable enough. A gentleman who has got a long purse can, of course, afford to give ungrudgingly, and without missing the money, a large amount for any handsome animal of fashionable blood. A London correspondent of the Times of India intimated in his letter, which appeared on the 8th June 1876, that the Duke of Westminster purchased Lord Dupplin's beautiful colt, Petrarch, for £20,000, or rupees two lakhs. I have on more than one occasion made, through the medium of your paper, some observations on the subject of horse breeding, and I now solicit a little more space for further remarks. Your correspondent who recently attended a horse show at Poona, advised Government, in one of his interesting communications, to purchase for, and despatch good stallions to, outstations. Experience tells me that the recommendation was a good one. When our late Governor, Sir Seymour Fitzgerald, visited Ahmedabad a few years ago, he looked at the stallions, and disapproved of them, but did nothing to remedy the evil. I have frequently conversed with a most excellent judge of horseflesh, our late General Sir Edward Russel, about the stallions here, and the conclusion he came to was, that the horses were not good enough for breeding purposes. It appears from Resolution No. 2045, dated 2nd May, 1876, which was placed on the editor's table in the Secretariat, that Government was highly pleased with the result of the Horse Show held at Ahmedabad on the 17th and 18th March last. It is therefore desirable that a noble undertaking should be carried to a successful termination. Time is everything in a matter of so much importance. It is to be hoped that public opinion will have some weight with Sir Philip Wodehouse, and that he will, without loss of time, send a few really good English and Arab stallions with plenty of bone under the knee to Ahmedabad to replace some of the worthless, broken down animals that are now retained at the expense of the State. Another step in the right direction would be to purchase immediately half-a-dozen well-bred mares for distribution gratuitously to Koonbees and others, who take a lively interest in horse breeding. Faultless mares are not procurable in Guzerat, and if they were available native breeders who belong to the cultivating classes are too poor to buy them. The facilities for breeding and rearing horses in Guzerat are very great indeed. I must certainly attribute all the expensive failures as regards breeding studs to mismanagement. By practising rigid economy and utilising brood mares, horse breeding would give an enterprising company in Guzerat a good dividend for their capital. Our Collector, Mr. A. A. Borrodaile, has proved to the satisfaction of Government and the public generally, as far as the Government stallions and native breeders in Guzerat are concerned, that a good description of horses can be bred, reared, and sold cheap for ordinary purposes. There are several excellent stud-bred horses in use at Ahmedabad, and some of them are splendid animals. The owner of Diamond, a compact, handsome horse by the English stallion Blackbird out of a well-bred Australian mare, has refused a thousand rupees for him, and would not part with him for "love or money." Two of Blackbird's colts were sold some time ago for more than a thousand rupees. Lady Love, by Raby, and half-brother of Diamond, is a beautiful high-mettled creature, and the owner declined to take Rs. 900 from a large land owner for her. An offer of Rs. 10,000 was made, to no purpose, for the Arab stallion Raby before he was ruined on the turf, and there are three of his handsome colts in the cantonment of Ahmedabad, all out of very good mares. I hope to be able to say something more about horse breeding in a future letter when I can command leisure. BENEDICT.

THE POONA RACES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SECOND DAY, THURSDAY, 14TH SEPT.

STEWARDS.

Colonel Harris, Judge; Major Burnett, Starter; Majors Lukin and Fellows, Clerk of the Scales; Messrs. Dun and Conran, Clerks of the Course; and Howard Melliss, Esq., Honorary Secretary.

A SMART shower of rain which fell on Wednesday afternoon, accompanied as it was by an overcast sky, threatened at one time a heavy course for yesterday's racing or the alternative of a postponement. Fortunately, however, the weather cleared before sunset, and though the course was heavy in the morning, the going was all that could be wished for by 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The programme, which I enclose, will show that the entries were good; and as there were six races and a match, the bill of fare may fairly be pronounced to have been excellent. The lotteries were held on Wednesday in the afternoon, instead of after-dinner; an arrangement which must have been a decided God-send to many at this festive season of the year, and which, it is to be hoped, will be kept up throughout the meeting. The attendance was perhaps not quite so good as it was on Monday evening, but those who put in an appearance were for the most part of the right sort, and the lotteries filled quite as well as they did on that occasion. The great excitement of the day was of course the Governor's Cup, in which the country-bred Clemence had again to meet the Arab crack Revenge. It was naturally supposed that the doubtful policy of making a waiting race of it as on Tuesday last would not be again repeated by owners of Arabs, and the question then arose whether a new system of tactics would turn the latter on the Derby winner. I never myself had any doubt that Revenge, if in his Bangalore form, and with a stable companion to make the running would reverse the order of the Derby running, and yesterday's race clearly showed what might have been done in the Derby had yesterday afternoon's tactics been adopted on that occasion. The pace was a cracker, the first mile and a-quarter being run out in 2m. 24s. The country-bred made a show of coming half a mile from home, but the effort was only a temporary one, and the race was never in doubt after the top of the hill had once been reached. Revenge was spurred no doubt, but it was in reality quite unnecessary, and was only done from a somewhat natural dread of allowing such a big animal as Clemence getting to too close quarters. The first event was a match:—

	st. lbs.
Capt Davison's.....g a p Gazelle.....	8 7	Bowen.....	1
Major Crosbie's ...g a p Electric	8 7	Finch	2

After the flag dropped, the running was taken up by Electric, with Gazelle lying about three or four lengths behind. They continued this order till they reached the ½ mile post, when Electric began to fall back slightly, and by the time the top of the hill was reached, the two ponies were on level terms. Shortly after passing the ¼ mile post, Gazelle went to the front; and from this point all racing was over, for he galloped without an effort in front of his opponent, and won his race with the greatest ease by two lengths in the splendid time (for ponies) of 2m. 59½s., which was certainly a wonderful performance for such small cattle.

The next race on the card was the event of the day.

2ND RACE.—The Governor's Cup—A Cup presented by H. E. Sir Philip Wodehouse, K.C.B., Governor of Bombay. Value Rs. 1,000. For all maiden country-bred horses, bred in the Bombay Presidency and maiden Arabs. Weight for age and class raised 7 lbs. Winner of the Maharaja of Mysore's Cup at Bangalore or Poona Derby to carry 4 lbs. extra. Winner of the two races to carry 7 lbs. extra. Horses that have started once and not won, allowed 3 lbs., twice or oftener 5 lbs. 1½ miles. Entrance—1st May, 3 G. M.; 1st June 5 G. M.; 1st July, 10 G. M.; 1st August, 15 G. M.; 1st September, 20 G. M. when the race will close.

The moment the flag dropped Yazeed was sent to the front as fast as ever he could travel, and by the time the horses passed the Grand Stand he was leading half a dozen lengths, with Desert Spirit 2nd, Young Shere Ali 3rd, Ugly Buck 4th, all tolerably close together, the remainder in Indian file, Clemence bringing up the rear. This order was not disturbed till they reached the ½ mile post, when Yazeed, who had done his work right well, fell back, and the Indian file formation of the horses in rear assumed a more compact shape. By the time the top of the hill was reached, Revenge was level with the leading horses, and from this point it was quite clear that he had all the Arabs safe, for after the ¼ mile was reached, he was leaving them behind at every stride. Clemence now made her effort, and passing all the other horses, it looked as if she was going to challenge Revenge who by the time he had rounded the corner had a commanding lead. It was, however, a mere flash in the pan, and the spurt she put on only lasted for about two furlongs, after which it became quite apparent that Revenge would be an easy winner which he eventually was by three lengths; Desert Spirit an indifferent third.

Time—3m. 24s.

3RD RACE.—"The Poona Stakes"—Rs. 500. For all Arabs. Weight for age, reduced 7 lbs. Winners—once, 5 lbs; twice, 10 lbs oftener, 14 lbs extra. For this race nine horses came to the post, and after a short delay in consequence of some of the jockeys persisting in not taking their horses far enough behind the starting post, they were dispatched to a fair start. Shaheen showed at once to the front, with Oghaub a length behind, Dutchman, Syrian, Merry Legs, Lachin, all in a cluster, Deception and Grey Jacket out of the race from the commencement. At the 1½ mile post Shaheen bolted off the course on the inside, and jumping a dry ditch forming one of the jumps for the steeple chases, was out of the race from this point. No other changes took place till the ¾ mile post was reached, when Syrian joined Oghaub who was still leading, and Merry Legs, Lachin, and Petrel in the order named commenced improving their position. At the top of the hill Oghaub resigned his lead which was taken up by Syrian, with Merry Legs, Lachin and Petrel still closing up, and Dutchman in close attendance. When the straight was reached Lachin fell back, and as Merry Legs was pulling hard a close race home was anticipated. He did not appear to respond, however, when called on just before reaching the distance from which point the race may be considered to have been over for Syrian won very easily by two lengths, Petrel second, Dutchman a good third.

Fireman and General Lee close together took the lead at the start, with Viking 3rd, three lengths behind; Oliver Twist and Kingcraft bringing up the rear. By the time the ¼ mile post was reached, all the horses were much closer together though still in the same order, but as soon as the ascent of the hill commenced Fireman and General Lee gradually fell back, leaving Viking at the top of the hill with the lead, with Kingcraft and Oliver Twist in close attendance. No sooner was the strain on Kingcraft's jaws eased then he let conger vent to his feelings in his old style, and from the turn to the straight the race was all over, Kingcraft winning in the commonest of canters by five lengths, Oliver Twist 2nd and General Lee 3rd; Viking, who ran very well throughout, was pulled up at the distance when his rider saw how useless it was to persevere.

On rounding the corner Jack had a slight lead, Ariel and Fatty close on his quarters, Kitano a length behind, and Pirate, who had been driven from the inside by a cross, in rear of the 5. THE TRAINS ON THE B. B. and C. I. RAILWAY.—Amongst our advertisements will be found one, announcing alterations in the trains on the B. B. and C. I. Railway, on the main line. Similar alterations in the local trains will be made shortly, which travellers will notice at the different stations on the line.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—On Saturday, at the Girgaum Police Court, four cart-drivers were fined for torturing their bullocks by Mr. Nana Morojee, two of whom were fined Rs. 2 each and the other two Re. 1 each, charged at the instance of Mr. Nutty, an agent to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.—Gopall Suckoo was also fined Re. 1 by the same Magistrate for torturing fowls by conveying a batch of four fowls fastened and suspended by the legs. He was also charged at the instance of Mr. Nutty.—At the Fort Police Court on the same day a shigram driver, named Mahomed Ebrahim, was fined Rs. 2 by Mr. C. P. Cooper for torturing his horse. He was charged at the instance of police constable No. 434A.

ONE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER.—The Bombay Guardian is never remarkable for its respect for logic, as the following paragraph exemplifies for the hundredth time. The appeal, however, to the feelings of the natives is quite irresistible:—"The native journals are greatly delighted with the course taken by Professor Wordsworth. It goes for nothing with them that the Bombay Guardian expressed its hearty satisfaction with the Viceroy for his minute on the Fuller case, and that for more than twenty years it has constantly protested against the violence and injustice sometimes exhibited by Europeans in this country towards natives; but no eulogy is too great for the Principal of the Elphinstone College, because of his utterance on the subject."

A DISHONEST SERVANT.—A peon in the employ of Mr. Ardaseer Hormusjee Wadia, named Appa Luximon, was on Saturday charged at the Fort Police Court before the Senior Magistrate, Mr. C. P. Cooper, at the instance of Mr. Jehangeerjee Dossabhoy, with theft, as a servant of property in possession of his master, and with simple theft of Rs. 140 extracted out of a letter entrusted to his care. The prisoner was entrusted with a letter addressed to Mr. Ardaseer Hormusjee Wadia at Poona, (containing the aforesaid amount in currency notes) for posting on Saturday, the 9th instant, and he extracted the notes and appropriated them to his own use. The theft was discovered on Mr. Ardaseer writing back and enquiring after the amount that was alleged to have been sent to him. The case stands adjourned for further hearing to the 23rd instant.

THE BISHOP'S GIRLS' SCHOOL.—The annual distribution of prizes to the successful young ladies attending this institution will take place on Wednesday next, the 20th instant, when the Right Rev. Dr. Mylne, the Lord Bishop of Bombay, will preside.—Poona Observer.

CHIEF SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT.—Mr. F. S. Chapman, the Chief Secretary to Government, who proceeded on leave of absence to England, returned by the last mail, and arrived here on the evening of Tuesday last. Mr. Chapman is at present residing with Mr. C. Gonne, the Secretary to Government in the Political Department, and received charge of his office from Mr. Ravenscroft on Friday, the latter officer being appointed to act as Collector of Bombay.—Id.

THE POONA NATIVE INSTITUTION.—We are glad to have to report the flourishing condition which this institution has attained. The Poona Native Institution which was established in 1874, is especially intended for the poorer classes on this side of India, and has for its object, not only the mental development of its pupils, but their moral and physical education. Sir Mungul dass Nuthoobhoy, C. S. I., visited the Institution last Wednesday, and expressed himself greatly pleased at the progress made by the pupils in so short a time.—Id.

FOURTH CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

SIXTH DAY, SATURDAY, 16TH SEPT.

(Before the HON. SIR CHARLES SARGENT.)

THE ALBERT MUSEUM THEFT CASE.

FUCKEER MAHOMED ESSA, Goolam Hossein Guffoor, Fyez Mahomed Noor Mahomed and Purtiraj Moolchund, were charged—the first prisoner with housebreaking by night in order to the committal of theft, and theft in a building used for the custody of property, and the others with receiving or being in possession of the property, they knowing it to have been stolen.

Mr. Leith appeared for the prosecution and Mr. K. Telang for the prisoner Purtiraj Moolchund.

Prisoners Nos. 1 and 3 pleaded guilty; the others pleaded not guilty.

Evidence was given to show that the Victoria and Albert Museum in the Victoria Gardens had been broken into on the night of the 26th of June last, entrance being obtained through one of the windows, and a quantity of valuable articles stolen, among them being a silver model of a mosque, a casket and tray in Kutch work, and a quantity of other articles, all of more or less value, amounting in the whole to the value of Rs. 2,253 or thereabouts. The police obtained a clue to the perpetrators of this daring act through information received from the servant of one of the prisoners. The evidence having been heard, the jury were addressed by the counsel, and his Lordship having summed up the evidence, the jury returned a verdict as regards the fourth prisoner of not guilty, and with regard to the other three prisoners, guilty. His Lordship then sentenced prisoner Nos. 1 to three years' hard labour, and prisoners Nos. 2 and 3 to two years' hard labour each, the fourth prisoner being discharged.

ENTICING AWAY A MARRIED WOMAN.

Joseph Maria Almeida, a Portuguese, was placed on trial for having, on the 18th of May last, enticed away the wife of Louis Garner D'Almeida, with the intention of having illicit intercourse with her, and with having committed adultery with her, he knowing her to be the wife of the prosecutor.

Louis Garner D'Almeida deposed that he was a guard on the G. I. P. Railway, and lived at Matharpacady. On the 28th of April 1875 he was married to his wife, Rosa Mary D'Almeida at St. Peter's R. C. Church at Bandora. The witness here put in a certificate written and signed by the minister who performed the marriage ceremony.

His Lordship said that the certificate produced was not admissible as evidence. The act required that the certificate of marriage should be one given and properly authenticated by the person in whose custody the register was kept. The certificate tendered did not meet this requirement of the act, as the priest who officiated and had granted the certificate had, it appeared, been transferred to Mahim. The only certificate receivable by the Court was a certified copy of the marriage register of the Church in which the ceremony had been performed, certified by the person in whose custody the register is kept.

The case was then adjourned until Wednesday next, the 20th instant.

THE DEATH OF MR. C. M. I. POLLOCK.

WE regret to announce the death of Mr. C. M. I. Pollock, a partner in the firm of Messrs. Macfarlane and Pollock, solicitors in Bombay, of which intimation was received by telegram on Saturday last. He was a son of Sir David Pollock, a late Chief Justice of Bombay; and started in business here as a solicitor many years ago. He was soon appointed Clerk of the Crown, an office which he filled for some fifteen years. He was successively the chief partner in the legal firm of Pollock and Penn; Pollock and Faithfull; Pollock, Walker, and Faithfull; and Pollock, Faithfull, and Keir. Having earned a competency, he went home in 1863, but came out again to this country about two years ago, when he started in business as a solicitor in Bombay on his own account. He had the same good qualities of heart which made him a welcome companion in social circles in years gone by, but advancing age had impaired the energy and elasticity of his former life; and the chances of his success as a solicitor were small. He joined Mr. Macfarlane in business, but had to leave Bombay rather abruptly with something the matter with his throat. When in London, he took the advice of the best medical men, who, however, were able to do nothing for him, and he died a few days ago of cancer in the throat, after a great deal of suffering, at 85, Pembridge Villas Notting Hill, London. He was one of the oldest lawyers in Bombay, the contemporary of Le Messurier, Holland, Howard, and Dickenson, who made a name at the bar of the late Supreme Court; and many in Bombay will learn with regret of the death of the affable and obliging lawyer and one of the most popular members of European society in former years.

THE SECRETARY OF STATE'S DRAFTS ON INDIA.

Government of India, Financial Department, Simla, the 31st August, 1876. Read the following:—

India Office, London, 13th July, 1876.

Financial,

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONORABLE THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—Para. 1. I have considered in Council your Financial letter, dated the 4th May, 1876, No. 153, and the papers therewith forwarded, relative to certain representations from the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, regarding the condition of the money market in Calcutta.

2. In their letter, dated the 19th April, 1876, the Bengal Chamber of Commerce stated that the condition of the money market in Calcutta was such as to occasion the gravest apprehension; that in their judgment that condition was mainly attributable to the suspension of the bi-monthly drawings on the Indian Treasuries; that the uncertainty as to the measures which might be adopted by the "Secretary of State in respect of his requirements, forbids calculations being made with any degree of safety, obstructs the ordinary course of business, and creates incalculable mischief to all interests;" that "in the Budget Statement the Financial Member estimated that the drafts on India would realize only 1s. 8¼d., and that even a lower rate might have to be accepted, thereby leading the public to believe that at such figures the Secretary of State would sell his bills. Acting on such belief the exchange banks took no measure for the purchase of silver, or other means of remittance, though their wants were so pressing; instead, however, of adopting the budget rates, the Secretary of State

THE UNITED STATES ARMY.

(From the "Times," Special Correspondent.)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.

When I was in Germany not long ago I was now and then cruelly taunted with the small numbers of the British Army, my German friends feigning much anxiety to know how many of her invincible troops England could at once bring into the field in case of a Continental war, in which, by some wholly unlooked-for complication, Germany had the misfortune to be opposed to her. Of course I retorted by congratulating them on the growth of their promising young Navy and hinting my hope that Germany did not mean to be mistress of the seas.

But somehow a Navy cannot for conversational purposes be made half so effective as an Army, when the troops are counted by hundred thousands and the ships by tens, and I used to come out of the encounter feeling, like my own Army, somewhat small. But all size is relative; a pigmy in Brobdingnag is a giant in Lilliput, and here in America, when I talk about England being able to bring 60,000 Regulars into the field at a moment's notice (I only hope I am telling the truth), I have the proud satisfaction of finding that those who believe me are filled with something like awe, even though the troops are "Britishers," whom, one learns here, their grandfathers so often thrashed. The American, who looks upon England as a small island lying somewhere off the coast of Europe, fancies that she must be all tooth and claw if she can actually show any where but on paper this overwhelming array of Regular troops, real Regulars, who are on duty all the year round, and have nothing to do but flirt with nursery maids and be ready to fight. There are not half that imposing number of Regulars in his own mammoth country, in any one corner of which all England might be stowed away without one American missing his elbow room. When the papers here write of a "gloriously magnificent pageant," "an imposing military demonstration," "the greatest military demonstration since the war times" (these headings are all faithfully copied from the leading journals of Philadelphia), they mean that from seven to eight thousand, or, according to their own most generous computation, ten thousand Volunteers marched through the principal streets without injury to their neighbours or themselves. The 25,000 or 26,000 Regulars who constitute the American army are nearly all, if not all, on the frontier, far away from the great national centres of civilization. The visitor from Europe who, perhaps, in his own town, can scarcely walk for an hour without coming upon troops is surprised to find that here he may wander about for weeks without encountering a single sentinel. At first the fact seems almost as strange and novel to him as if he had discovered a large civilized community who got on without any intoxicating liquors or police. But as soon as he has habituated himself to it, and contrived to comprehend it by recollecting that the Americans are not only an intensely industrious, commerce-loving people but that they look upon standing armies with business-like disquiet as a waste of money, since they have no foreign foes to fear, and with jealousy as a possible peril to their liberties, then he is, on the other hand, scarcely less surprised to find this intensely, busy, peaceful anti-military nation as much given to parading, marching, and soldiering, as fond of uniforms and swords and cock's feathers as the most warlike and despotically governed nation in Europe. Even essentially civil demonstrations often assume here a quasi-military form like that of the Templars, for instance, who march and countermarch in large bodies through the streets with a precision at which shows they have taken the pains to acquire a very fair knowledge of drill. I should have attributed the fact to the Civil War, which turned, one may almost say the entire nation into soldiers, and which is so recent that boys and girls still at school feel its influence. But Americans assume that the national passion for parade existed before the war was thought of. Whatever the cause, it certainly is a fact that anything in the shape of a military display has the strongest fascination for the American mind.

Yesterday's parade of the "National Guard of Pennsylvania" threw the Philadelphians into as fiery a fever of martial and patriotic enthusiasm as if they were welcoming home a victorious army whose valour had won a glorious peace. By a quaint perversity of fiction, like that which makes Horace's lover idolize his mistress's defects, the eulogists of the National Guard heap their praise highest on its weakest points. "They march magnificently;" "their evolutions are executed with mathematical precision;" they have "the easy, swinging step of the true soldier," and foreigners who have perhaps seen the finest regulars of Europe in the full discipline of war are gravely asked if they ever before saw such troops. A German acquaintance of mine to whom the question was put had the presence of mind to say "No," and told me afterwards that he honestly meant it, though not, perhaps, quite in the sense which his questioner intended. The fact is that to foreigners the American soldiers yesterday were objects of admiration less than interest, just because their bearing, when judged by the high standard of criticism which their panegyrists challenge for them, was so unsoldierlike. They looked like what they are—Volunteers, who turn out twice a year to drill, and have plenty of time during the rest of the year to forget half of what they then learnt. But they have, as Volunteers, this great advantage over most Volunteers—over our own, for instance—that many of them have seen as hard fighting as any troops in Europe; that the tattered flags borne by some of their regiments were carried to victory through fire as hot as that of Solferino or Sedan. On the other hand, they have as soldiers—however comparatively deficient in drill—this great advantage over regular soldiers, that they belong to the peace-loving and productive classes of the community, have no interest whatever in war, and do as much as other citizens to enrich the State which they defend from foreign aggression and intestine strife. Nor is there any danger that here, as in some other countries, they may menace liberty of public order. They fairly represent the various social strata of the community, from the merchant or professional man to the minor or factory hand, and as these strata are taken perpendicular by, not horizontally—or, in plainer English, are all mixed up together, they embody no sectional sinister interests and aims. The "Army of Pennsylvania" is, in fact, just such an army as every believer in human progress would wish to see established throughout the world until all armies whatsoever could be dispensed with; and if it showed by the "mathematical precision" of its movements that it wasted upon drill the time consumed by regulars, it would lose half its charm. It offers, I need scarcely say, admirable material out of which to manufacture the best troops, according to the modern standard of military excellence which requires a soldier to be something more than a fighting animal. Its members have education as well as physique. I cannot profess to give an accurate account of its organization, but I believe the Government—I mean the Government of the State—provides the men with their arms, while they provide their own uniforms, which they are therefore allowed themselves to select. They elect their own officers, who are not taken from the Regular Army, except in such high grades as that of General. When they are called on at the two fixed times of the year—Spring and "the Fall," the American term for our prosaic "Autumn"—the Government gives them money enough to cover all their expenses. On such an exceptional occasion as the present it pays only the expenses of their journey, leaving them to find their own board. But as they live in camp near the Exhibition during their brief sojourn here of eight or ten days, and mess in common, the last expense cannot be very great. This master is specially interesting as the first general parade of the National Guard belonging to all parts of Pennsylvania. If all parts had been fully represented, the "magnificent and imposing military demonstration" of eight or ten thousand would have reached the still more "magnificent and imposing" total of twelve thousand, or even a "baker's dozen." This gigantic force—comprising all arms, horse, foot and artillery—watches over the safety of a population about as large as that of Belgium, which boasts, if I remember rightly, 100,000 Regulars. But the dozen thousand would, in case of an emergency, form the nucleus of a far larger force. They are at any moment liable to be called out. When the last war broke out many young men of means who had joined the Militia as they might have joined a club for the sake of the camp life, the uniform, and the playing at soldiers were rather astonished, and at first, perhaps, not overpleased to find themselves suddenly transformed into food for powder and shot. But they did their duty none the less gallantly because it was half involuntary, and now, of course, with the advantage of this warning, everybody joins the National Guard with his eyes open. No one, indeed, expects to be again wanted for war, but the Guard is also liable to be called out in cases of riots or other breaches of the peace. It is not long since that the Pennsylvanian Guard did yeoman's service in protecting some valuable mines which the miners had threatened to destroy.

One very American feature of the parade, to be found in all the military parades of this country, was the appearance at its head of a gentleman in civilian costume—Governor Hartranft. The German officers laugh at us for that jealousy of military dictatorship which makes us choose for our Secretary of War a civilian, who has not, perhaps, even smelt powder at a review. What must they think of the Americans who carry this jealousy so far that they will not, in a purely "military demonstration" like that of yesterday, allow soldiers to be led by a soldier. The paramount authority of the civil over the military arm must, even on such an occasion, be symbolized and brought home in concrete form to the meanest comprehension among the many headed. Some times when the "civil arm" does not happen to know how to manage a horse this awkwardly times display of its superiority must be somewhat perilous to its dignity, and in an American crowd each man has too much respect for himself as a citizen sovereign or sovereign citizen (I forget at this moment which) to have much left for the Governor, dressed in a little brief authority, whom his own vote has made and can unmake. Any Governor who looked out of his place on horseback or at the head of troops would not long be left in ignorance of this awkward incompatibility between practice and theory. Happily, in Pennsylvania no such risk is, for the present, at any rate, run, the Governor not only having been, but still "looking every inch" a soldier, seen nowhere to better advantage than at the head of the men with whom he did brilliant service during the war.
